states, adding that the mandatory provisions relating to transparency, open competition and fair publication were blatantly ignored. The respondents failed to obtain the required bid security and performance security from the contractors and, instead, accepted temporary pay orders, which were later returned and encashed, according to the complainant.

He submitted that the payments exceeding Rs1.25 billion were released to the favoured contractors within only two months of the tender advertisement, without any verification of work, physical inspection or progress certification, further showing criminal negligence and collusion.

Tribute to Khwaja Moinuddin and Junagadh issue

By Peerzada Salman

SOME theatre practitioners and critics believe that our region has not produced quality playwrights. Without engaging in this debate, it would be unjust not to recognise the talent of one person belonging to the realm of stage. On Nov 10, 1975, it was reported that the Governor of Sindh, Begum Ra'ana Liaquat Ali Khan had exhorted the writers and artists of the country to fulfil their national responsibility and accomplish the mission of Khwaja Moinuddin. In her presidential address at a meeting held to observe the fourth death anniversary of the playwright (Nov 9) at the Pakistan National Centre in Bahadurabad, she said the late Khwaja sahib showed the way to create national consciousness through his art. The governor paid tribute to the dramatist for his honest, dedicated and meaningful efforts in pointing out the problems that society was faced with. "He always focused, satirically, on social evils and projected the ideology of Pakistan in his plays. His dramas Taleem-i-Balighan, Naya Nishan, Mirza Ghalib Bunder Road Per and Lal Qila Se Lalhukhet proved that they were not mere entertainment but a means of expressing serious thoughts."

Mohammad Yousuf, a film, TV and stage actor — discovered by Khwaja sahib — in his speech said the best way to pay tribute to the playwright was to set up a 'national theatre,' which the dramatist passionately advocated for.

Creative individuals became the topic of discussion on Nov 12, again, when the Provincial Minister for Power and Irrigation, Dur Muhammad Usto called upon young writers and poets to work dedicatedly for the solidarity and integrity of Pakistan. Speaking at the launch of the book Malumat He Malumat by Zaki Ahmad Zaki, he said enlightened people could play a vital role in moulding the opinion of the new generation.

In a similar vein (of publishing books), on Nov 15, a book titled Economic History of the Region Constituting Pakistan from 1825 to 1974: An Analytical Study by Dr Azimusshan Haider was launched in the city. Provincial Information Minister Mir Hazar Khan Bijarani, who was the chief guest at the launch, said the publication would help policymakers to frame development plans in light of the correct [fiscal] background. He pointed out that the book elucidated the economic transformation that took place in the area which now constituted Pakistan. It analysed development in the fields of agriculture, industry and communications between 1825 to 1974, apart from underlining the conceptual changes that had been introduced systematically into the economic sphere after 1971.

From economy to geopolitics. On Nov 11, according to a press statement published in Dawn, the then Senator Kamal Azfar, addressing a public meeting at Vanthali Hall held to observe Junagadh Day, said the Junagadh issue was very much alive, and the government of Pakistan would take appropriate action at appropriate time. "The people of Junagadh were fully entitled to all the legitimate rights. Till such a time as Junagadh was not freed from Indian occupation, the people of Junagadh would not find themselves alone in their struggle," he added.

Sufism's impacts in South, Central Asia explored

KARACHI: The history of how Sufism shaped the religious, cultural and political landscape of Central and South Asia was explored in a lecture by Dr Waleed Ziad, associate professor of history at Qatar's Georgetown University.

The event was organised by the School of Economics and Social Sciences (SESS), Institute of Business Administration (IBA), at its City campus on Monday. It was moderated by Assistant Professor SESS Dr Ali Gibran Siddiqui.

The lecture centred on Dr Ziad's acclaimed book, Hidden Caliphate: Sufi Saints Beyond the Oxus and Indus.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr Ziad explored the Naqshbandi-Mujaddidi Sufi networks that connected Central and South Asia between the 18th and early 20th centuries. He explained how the Sufi scholars at that time exercised their "sacropolitical authority" to shape religious thought and community life.

This also engendered a "cultural resilience that transcended regional boundaries," he added.

Dr S Akbar Zaidi, executive director of IBA Karachi, also attended the session, which drew an engaging audience comprising students, faculty members, researchers, and others interested in South and Central Asian history, religion and culture.

Participants appreciated the depth of scholarship and the relevance of Dr Ziad's work to understanding contemporary cultural connections across the Muslim world. The session concluded with an interactive question and answer segment, allowing attendees to explore themes related to transnational spirituality, historical continuity, and the enduring impact of Sufi thought on regional societies. —Dawn Report to death had a majority of judges from one province, while the rest were from other provinces. "It was not only an injustice to the Quaid-i-Awam but a blow to the federation itself. A dangerous message was sent that day — one whose consequences we are still facing," he said.

The PPP chairman said that while people might hold differing opinions on certain clauses of the proposed amendments, there could be no disagreement on one fundamental point — that every province will have equal representation in the Constitutional Court.

"I congratulate all of you on this great achievement," he said, adding: "I also want to thank you, for this has been a long and historic struggle. Shaheed Mohtarma Benazir Bhutto devoted 30 years of her life to restoring the Constitution of Quaid-i-Awam Shaheed Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. After her martyrdom, you — the people — revived that Constitution through the 18th Amendment and fulfilled the promises of the Charter of Democracy. But there was one commitment that could not be realised at that time. Insha'Allah, I will go to Islamabad and ensure that it is finally fulfilled."

The ceremony was also attended by PPP Sindh President Nisar Ahmed Khuhro, Sindh Chief Minister Syed Murad Ali Shah, Minister for Agriculture Sardar Muhammad Bux Khan Mahar, former chief minister Syed Qaim Ali Shah, provincial ministers, members of the assembly and the party's office-bearers.
